

“Allied Universal and the utility company are partners,” said Marinacci. “We have the same high standards for safety and we are integrated into their culture. We truly are one big team working toward a common goal.”

“I have been very happy with the changes we made to our security program through Allied Universal and the improvements to our extra coverage strategy,” said the utility company’s director of corporate security. “Lillian and the Allied Universal team are critical to the program’s success and because of their diligence and response, my job is now easier.”
